

```
1  *****
2  *
3  * LeafNode extends TreeNode by adding an Object value field, but no subtree
4  * references.
5  *
6  */
7 public class LeafNode extends TreeNode {
8
9     /
10      * Construct with the given id and value.
11      */
12     public LeafNode(int id, Object value) {
13         super(id);
14         this.value = value;
15     }
16
17    /
18     * Return the string representation of this leaf, which starts with the 19     * String value of its ID. If the value field of this leaf is not null,
20     * then the return value has appended a colon, followed by the toString of 21     * the value.
22     */
23     public String toString(int level) {
24         return symPrint(id) +
25             (value == null ? "" : (": " + value.toString()));
26     }
27
28    / The generic value of this node, used for identifier names and literal
29     * values. */
30    public Object value;
31
32 }
```